Amazing Session of City Council, at Which Charges Were Made Described by Reporter for the American—"Get Back" at Alderman.

It is unfortunate that motion picture photography and the making of phonograph records of the human voice, were developed in the early part of the century, but it is a pity that they have not been sufficiently perfected in order of the present generation and recording of such a session of the Common Council as was held last night.

Posterity is entitled to such a record. It is due the millions to come that they should have their inherited burden of the report was accompanied by a state-

In his statement Mr. Payne says that he has had an investigation made based on the last census returns of 1900, showing the amount of domestic consumption of articles upon which duties have been levied, and also the articles upon which duties have been levied by the tariff as finally reported from the Conference Committee. This has been done because com-

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 30.—Physically exhausted after the grueling cross-examination of District Attorney Jerome and the searching queries hurled at him by Justice Mills, Harry Thaw had to be helped from the courtroom today, where his trial to establish his sanity is in progress. Jerome appeared well pleased with his onslaught on the Thaw defense while the prisoner shuffled to his chair, after being released from the witness stand and collapsed into his seat.

Mr. Morschauer, his counsel, supported Thaw from the room. Thaw, toward the last moments on the stand, bore the look of a hunted man as he reflected his eyes about the room and uneasily shuffled his feet. Jerome, smilingly confident, indicated that he thought he had proved that Thaw still holds delusions concerning Stanford White.

"You have stated that the athlete said you were legally but not medically insane?" was the first question Mr. Jerome directed at Thaw.

"I have not said that I am in the same boat as you are at that question. I cannot really say so to each element, but I might be able to tell you about one of them."

Shows Signs of Nervousness.

"Dr. Hammond said that I was in such a state of mind that I did not know the nature and quality of my act when I killed White," testified Thaw.

"Didn't Dr. White think you were crazy?"

"I believe that before the commission he was really sane, but that I was wrong while in the first trial he believed I was really insane; that I didn't know the nature of my act or that it was wrong."

Mrs. W. Monroe Roberts.

CRAWFORD, N. H., July 30.—Declaring that she thought mountain climbing "just the best sport in the world," Mrs. W. Monroe Roberts, bride of W. Monroe Roberts, of the city of New York, was the first woman to make the ascent of the blue-slate tramp and her husband took her when she needed the summit of Washington, Mount Clay, Pleasant and Clinton Mountains.

"Oh, of course," I was tired after the big climb," she said today as she sat on the summit of Washington, "but I was just as happy as a child."

Never climbed a mountain before but try any athletic stunt done and if it'll be at it again."

"Two years ago she was seen at the wedding of the city of New York at Seagate," said the young bridegroom merrily. "Then shall rise thirty or forty feet higher than the city of New York."

Wore High Heeled Shoes.

"No, really I didn't mind it at all," she proudly told wife, who is just twenty years old.

RUBE VINSON GOT BLACK EYE AND A RELEASE

FALL RIVER, July 20.—Right Fielder Vinson, well-known as "Blunk" Vinson of the Lawrence team of the New England League, today was handed his release by Manager Hanson of the club and a black eye and several blue joints in addition.

Vinson, last night, took a trotty car to the State line. He crossed to Tiverton and carried too long among the four big saloons which are crowded close to the Rhode Island border to spend Fall River's third.

Today Vinson didn't get up until 10 o'clock. Then he came down into the lobby of the Withler House and started to play bridge. He picked Jean Burdett, manager of the Worcester Club, which is playing here this afternoon. Burdett, good naturedly got rid of Vinson.

Then the big right fielder split his own money. Hanson, he asked Hanson to give him some money.

"You better be careful or you'll get not only your money but your release," said the boss ball player.

Vinson, his eyes were trouble again. He was in a bad way, but he wasn't in a bad way. He was in a bad way, but he wasn't in a bad way.

WINNERS ARE BARRED IN THE 1915 GAMES

In order to equalize the competition in the 1915 games, the Playground Association has voted that no winner of first or second place in any previous series can take part in the August events. The committee, however, stated that the winners are not barred from events after that year.

With the new winners and secondaries only competing, the games should be very close and the abilities should have about equal chances.

Three watches, gold, silver and gemstone, will be awarded to the winners of first, second and third places.

Three "midget" events will be run off for boys weighing thirty-five pounds or less. These events will be the fifty yard dash, running high and standing broad jump. Prizes for these events will be medals of various values.

Notes of the Red Sox Game

Harry Walters started the game for the Red Sox and was greeted with two hits, which, with a home run, gave the visitors two runs in the first inning. In the second round Walter was picked up at a slump and doubled two persons from the mound. He then pitched the game. For they wanted to see the new man work. He had some hits, some runs, and was hit hard, and also was wild.

Lead lived up to the first part of the game with a good hitting catch off home. It was the best play by any of the fielders all day.

On Criger's first two times at bat he got home on both.

Walters pitched a game of a home run by a fifty-one hundred shot of a ball strike. The ball would have gone to the fence had this stopped it.

Reilly held the Red Sox without a hit for the first four innings, but he let down after this afternoon, here's hoping.
